

MEXICO

SAN LUIS RIO COLORADO, A BORDER TOWN JUST ACROSS FROM YUMA, AZ

PARTNER: THE ALOE FAMILY

An organization that works to equip future leaders in San Luis to break the cycle of poverty in their families and community.

WHAT THE COUNTRY IS LIKE:

Border towns in Mexico are difficult places. People end up in San Luis for many different reasons: some are born there, some are attempting to immigrate to the U.S., some are awaiting an asylum hearing or visa and some have recently been deported. Despite the difficulties, you'll find a town with fun and engaging people, great food and lots to do.

WHAT WE'LL BE DOING:

We'll spend time in San Luis working with the local leaders on business plans, leadership development and spiritual development. We'll also get to visit the Oasis Boy's Home.

WHAT TRAVEL IS LIKE:

We'll take a direct flight to either Phoenix or San Diego that should be about four hours long. We'll then rent a car and drive across the border, which is about another four hour journey. Once we cross into Mexico, we're only about 20 minutes from our destination.
